CERAMIC INDUSTRY HONORS W. E. WELLS

TRIBUTE PAID TARIFF EXPERT FOR 31 YEARS AS SPOKESMAN

Pottery Owners and Civic Leaders Attend Dinner.

PRESENTED GIFT
Manufacturers' Association Lauds Retiring Committeeman.

With virtually every general ware plant between the Atlantic and the Pacific represented and, in addition, guests from every walk of life in the community in which he has played so prominent a role, the United States Potters' association last night gave a testimonial dinner at the East Liverpool country club in honor of W. E. Wells, of Newell, for 31 years the recognized spokesman of the American ceramic industry.

Attending the love and esteem for the man whose success began as bookkeeper in the original River road plant of the Homer Laughlin China company, 95 business and professional leaders sat at the festive board in the beautifully decorated dining room of the Country Club.

Presented With Traveling Case
The occasion, which was marked by the presentation of a buffalo hide traveling case containing a sterling silver mounted service in an ostrich holder, as a token of esteem from men who had been associated with him during more than a quarter of a century, was prompted by Mr. Wells' retirement from the chairmanship of the labor committee.

Today

This Old, Old Earth.
The Smallest Light.
A. G. M. of the Air.
Unlike Salome.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are those of the writer and do not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review.)

HOW long has this earth been whirling around the sun, following a spiral path through endless space? Prof. Camp and Vanderhoff, of California university, don't know exactly. But in New Mexico they have found fossils going back 75,000,000 years. Some "as recent as 7,900,000 years ago."

NATIVES employed to dig the fossils "are deeply religious. They castigate themselves with whips, wear cactus in their sandals as penance for their sins."

If they knew how old the earth was, and knew that it would keep on rolling for at least 1,000 million years longer, they would postpone the castigation.

THE University of Pittsburgh has developed a point of light so small that only a microscope can detect it. The light comes from the point of a quartz pencil finer than the point of a needle. Ultra-violet light applied to the big end of the pencil produces the world's tiniest light, that will be used under the microscope "to pick up single cells."

With this quartz pencil, ultra-violet rays may be introduced directly into individual diseased cells, not wasting their energy in penetrating outside tissues.

THE most important airplane news concerns the organization of a "General Motors of the Air," under the wing of New York's National City Bank.

A few weeks ago, Charles E. Mitchell, president of the bank, and his friends in aviation, acquired the Boeing Airplane company of Seattle, which runs air lines from Chicago to San Francisco and Seattle.

NOW the National City crowd takes in the Pratt and Whitney company that manufactures the "Wasp" and "Hornet" air-cooled engines, and the very successful Vought company.

That air unit now amounts to $150,000,000 and will grow. Watch it. But don't gamble in airplane stocks. They are dangerous.

Melancholy and in Ill Health Since Mother's

Representative Swing's Pen Used as Measure to Protect Imperial Valley Becomes Law.

WATER AND POWER FOR ARID LANDS

Senator Johnson, Who
With Swing, Sponsored Proposal, and Four Others Attend.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—President Coolidge signed the Boulder Dam bill today.

The long struggle of years to enact a measure that would control the flood waters of the Colorado river, protect the residents of the Imperial Valley of California, and supply much-needed water and power to arid lands, was ended in the president's office at 10:20 o'clock this morning. The measure is now a law.

President Coolidge attached his signature to the bill with a pen brought to the White House by Rep. Philip D. Swing (R.) of California, who with Senator Hiram Johnson (R.) of California, fathered the project in its legislative form. The pen was saved for later presentation to George Young, publisher of the Los Angeles Examiner.

Pen Saved for Publisher.

There were five witnesses to the signing of the bill. On either side of the president as he affixed his signature stood Senator Johnson and Representative Swing, who directed the long fight in congress for its passage. Joining with them in the little ceremony were Representative Smith (R.) of Idaho, chairman of the House irrigation committee, Dr. Elwood Mead, commissioner of reclamation, and W. B. Matthews, counsel for the Los Angeles bureau of power and light.

The special pen which Representative Swing brought to the White House for the president's use was mounted on an ornate block. Publisher Young was to have been a witness to the signing, but the train on which he is coming to Washington will not reach here until tomorrow.

Three Pens Used.

Three pens in all were used by the president in signing the measure. He started his signature with the ceremonial pen furnished by Congressmen Swing, but broke it midway and completed the signature with two other pens, one of which went to Swing and the other to Senator Johnson.

After the president's signature was attached, there was handshaking all around, and the company retired to the south grounds of the White House to pose for a large battery of movie cameras.

The Boulder Dam bill reached the White House last night after having been reviewed and endorsed by the department of the interior and the bureau of reclamation.

ABOARD U. S. S. UTAH, (Via Arlington Va., Radio Station.), Dec. 21.—Just after sunrise this morning, two Brazilian cruisers appeared on the horizon and joined the battleship Utah as escorts on the last 150 miles of its journey to Rio de Janeiro.

The cruisers, the Rio Grande da Sul and Bahia, thundered out a gun salute to President-elect Herbert Hoover before falling alongside the Utah.

The three ships then proceeded together towards Rio de Janeiro where the Utah will dock at 11 o'clock (9:00 a. m. E. S. T.).

The three-day visit at the Brazilian capital promises to be the most cordial and colorful of Mr. Hoover's 7,000 mile tour, in addition to being the last stopover before the Utah heads back to United States soil.

Residents of the modern yet picturesque city are determined to make Mr. Hoover's visit a momentous one. Numerous official functions and informal entertainments have been planned. The president-elect will make three speeches.

KING WINTER RULES IN OHIO

King winter, attended by his faithful aides, wind, cold and snow, today rode roughshod into Ohio, usurped the throne held for a few months by the dethroned monarch, autumn, took up the scepter of weather control and prepared to reign in undisputed sway until March 21, 1929.

His majesty snorted fiercely as he swept triumphantly through Ohio and left Marysville's government thermometer gasping with an unwelcome temperature of 7 degrees above zero, representing an overnight drop of 30 degrees and bringing to Union county the coldest day of the season.

Columbus, where U. S. Government Observer A. H. Alexander took official cognizance of the monarch's coronation, sought shivering refuge in great coats as wintry blasts left in their wake a temperature of 9 degrees above zero.

The two girls were seated in their parked motor car at one side of the road when the truck struck it. The driver of the truck, who is said to have fallen asleep at the wheel, was badly hurt.

The Hill automobile was wrecked and the two girls were forced to make the remainder of the trip to California by train.

VIEWS DIFFER ON FUTURE OF SMALL CHURCH

Leaders Express Opinions on Statement of Rockefeller.

DOOMED, HE SAYS

John D., Jr., Comments
On 36-story Broadway Temple.

By James L. Kilgallen.
(Copyright, 1928, I. N. S.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—Sharp division of opinion exists among prominent pastors of the United States on the question: "Is the small church doomed?" This was revealed today by a poll taken by International News Service in which church leaders of the nation expressed their opinion of the statement of John D. Rockefeller, jr., that the day of the small church is over as far as New York City is concerned.

Rockefeller was commenting on the $5,000,000 Broadway temple, the "skyscraper church" now under construction and toward which project he has contributed $250,000. The new temple is to be thirty-six stories. Rockefeller sees a need for the skyscraper church that will dominate the skyline in big cities, thus giving to religion a material as well as spiritual dominance. Amos Semple McPherson of Los Angeles, celebrated pastor of Angeles temple which has a membership of 15,000, takes the view that the little church is not doomed, contending that "the earnest desire to worship is all the dramatization the church needs."

Dr. Frank Norris Agrees.

The Rev. Dr. Frank Norris, nationally known fundamentalist and pastor of the First Baptist church of Fort Worth, Texas, disagrees with Mrs. McPherson, however, and agrees with Rockefeller. He said:

"I favor the skyscraper church. The New Testament plan was one big church to the city. Then, too, it is in accordance with the development of world business. Little churches, of course, have a proper field in small towns."

The Rt. Rev. Bishop H. J. Mikell of the Episcopal diocese of Atlanta vigorously asserts that skyscraper churches and pretentious edifices are not necessary to give spiritual dominance.

Bishop Anderson's Viewpoint.

The Rev. Dr. George Mecklenburg, pastor of the Wesley Methodist Episcopal church of Minneapolis, frankly declares himself in favor of big churches.

The Rt. Rev. Bishop William F. Anderson of the Methodist Episcopal church of Boston does not approve anything that savors of the commercializing of religion.

The Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick of New York, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, heartily coincides with Mr. Rockefeller's viewpoint, asserting he believes that the Broadway temple experiment would "serve to dramatize religion" and attract the imagination of the city.

Sharp Division of Opinion.
Sharp division to this opinion is expressed by the Rev. Dr. James K. Thompson, of Fort Worth, Texas, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, who thinks that the dramatic value of the skyscraper church is doubtful except to visitors and newcomers.

The Rev. Dr. Paul Rader, noted Chicago evangelist and pastor of the Gospel tabernacle, declared the small church is "as much needed as the small home." He expressed the belief that skyscraper churches will be in vogue for a while but eventually will pass out.

The Rev. Dr. Timothy Stone of Chicago, pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian church, said the small church "is here to stay." He added that "the close contact of the minister and members is important and inspiring."

"The skyscraper church is still a matter of experiment," said the Rev. Dr. L. D. Anderson, pastor of the First Christian church of Fort Worth. "No doubt the tendency is toward the downtown church. There is no question but that the large church can do the most effective work."

Manufacturers of all kinds of products from steel gates to jewelry, are sending representatives to the London museum to study the exhibits in order to get new ideas.

Eight new seaplanes are to be added to the British Air Forces at Basra, Iraq.

TWO MEN DIE IN GUN FIGHT

Martins Ferry Worker
and Police Officer
Are Victims.

MARTINS FERRY, O., Dec. 21.—Two men are dead here today from bullet wounds suffered yesterday. Patrolman Peter Reddy, 57, died during the night due to wounds inflicted by a gun in the hands of Homer O. Smith, 26, mill worker. Smith was killed during a gun battle with Patrolmen Reddy and George Cusick, which ensued when the officers attempted to arrest him.

Smith was wanted on an assault complaint filed by Miss Alma Lott, whom he is alleged to have beaten. The gun battle occurred at Smith's home. He was in a garage when the officers arrived and instead of surrendering, opened fire. The officers returned the shots, Reddy fell mortally wounded, and a few minutes later Smith was found dead in the garage with bullet through the heart.

NEGRO "VOODOO DOCTOR" SAYS HE SLEW MAN

Decapitated Body Found In Basement in Cleveland.

VICTIM UNKNOWN

Doss Wade, 40, is Held After Confession.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 21.—Doss Wade, 40, Negro, and said to be a "Voodoo doctor" was under arrest here today after confessing, according to police, that he killed another Negro and cut the head from the body, on Dec. 12.

A decapitated body was found late yesterday in the basement of the rooming house where Wade lives, the proprietress of the house said the body was that of William Gibbs. The head was not found until some time later. It had been placed in a cup board.

Police waited at the house for Wade. When he returned and saw the officers, Wade fled but was captured after he had been shot twice in the legs.

He confessed the crime, police say, relating that he killed Nemo Gibbs, a roomer in the same house, by beating him with a lead pipe, and robbed him of $35, Dec. 12. Nemo is a brother of William. Last night both Nemo and William Gibbs appeared at the police station, remarking that they were "very much alive."

The identity of the body and the reason why it was decapitated are unknown.

NILES BOILER COMPANY SOLD

Standard Plate Iron Plant to be Enlarged.

NILES, O., Dec. 21.—D. J. Finney, president of the Standard Boiler & Plate Iron company, announced today that Youngstown capital is to take over and reorganize the concern. The plant was capitalized in 1906 at $100,000. It will be enlarged as soon as reorganization details can be worked out. J. W. Warner, former manager, William B. Pollock, of Youngstown, and Edgar J. Reilly, Youngstown, are buying the controlling interest. Stockholders are to meet next week. Though only 30 men are employed at the plant now, it was leading industry here several years ago, employing 150 men.

Women to Hunt Treasure. Two adventure-loving women and a man of 70 recently left Belfast, Ireland, on an expedition to save the Armada treasures from the Spanish galleon Almirante de Florencia, which sank in Tobermory Bay in 1558. They are Lady E. Fox-Pitt, daughter of the Marchioness of Queensberry, Mrs. Margaret Leask, wife of a retired naval officer and mother of a small son, and Colonel K. N. Foss, retired army officer. Foss says that despite his years he does not object to diving for treasure. The party will spend $15,000 working on the galleon. "I don't think anybody has actually seen the vessel since it sank in Tobermory Bay three centuries ago," said Mrs. Leask, "but treasures have been recovered from it—coins, silver plate, and so forth."

Before he can take up his new appointment the Archbishop of Canterbury, in England, has to pay $1,250 in fees, of which $585 goes to officials of Canterbury Cathedral.

SERUM CHIEF HOPE IN FIGHT ON INFLUENZA

Public Health Service
Finds Preventative
For Disease.

STUDY EPIDEMIC

Officials Say it is Impracticable to Quarantine.

By ROBERT S. THORNDURGH.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—The chief hope of the Public Health Service officials and other medical scientists who have renewed their investigations of influenza, is the discovery of a serum which will act as a preventive or partial immunity for the disease.

Experts in the office of Surgeon
General Hugh S. Cummings said today that in all probability such a serum
or other means of stopping flu epidemics such as is now threatening to sweep to every corner of the United States, will be developed.

Added to the experience obtained in the study following the 1918 epidemic will be the results of new investigations now in progress. While the former investigations had somewhat negative results, much information of great value was obtained.

Let Disease Run Course.
Officials said that once an epidemic of flu gets a strong hold on the country there is little to do but to watch it run its course. Even with the utmost precautions it is impracticable to quarantine communities, or even individuals afflicted.

As long as there is individual contact the disease will spread. For this reason the possibility of a serum rendering the human body less susceptible to flu is one of the most important objectives of medical science
today.

No reports as to the spread of the present epidemic were available today.
The Public Health Service has received figures for the week ending December 15 and next week will compile the reported cases by states for the week ending December 22.

Predict 500,000 Cases.
Undoubtedly the next report will show a tremendous increase in the number of cases, according to officials, who predicted that the figure will run to a half-million. That means there are more than five times that many cases, as there is considerable latency in the reporting of influenza by physicians to their local health boards.

The present epidemic probably will bring about a correction of this condition. Public health officials said in fighting influenza it is essential to have more complete figures, that the movement of the epidemic may be watched.

EXPERIMENTS with a short wave of the new "beam wireless" show that two or three telegraphic messages and a talking voice could all go over the interesting beam at the same time.

same apparatus. The world of science is getting complicated.

CHITTEWA FALLS, Wis., wants to know why Mrs. Brown moved to Mr.
Heidelberger's farm to be housekeeper, while Mrs. Heidelberger moved to Mr. Brown's farm to be housekeeper, each taking her children with her.

The horrified community calls it "a case of two wives swapping husbands." That very thing is done, less informally, in high society, after a trip to Paris or Reno.

After a month's desperate illness,
King George still continues his courageous fight for life. No better Christmas present could come to the British people than news of the King's recovery. If he does recover it will be due, largely, to his wise and temperate living since boyhood.

How much "light beer and wine"
would it take to do as much harm as

SENATOR DURANT, of Connecticut, having made arrangements with

make the trip comfortably in 10 hours.
That will seem slow in a year or two.

S. R. CAPPS, geologist, and Gerald Fitzgerald, topographic engineer, made an exploring trip to Alaska by airplane. Ordinarily, a pack train takes three weeks for that trip through the

the airplane is coming.

ENLARGE SCHOOL BASKETBALL CAGE

In accordance with arrangements perfected by athletic authorities at the high school, seating capacity will be increased for tonight's game on the local school court, according to announcement by Faculty Manager J.
M. Decker.

One additional row of seats has been installed on the alley side of the gymnasium and another row on the opposite side of the court.

In the former case a section of the seats will be set aside for scorers, timers, officials and players, aiding in eliminating congestion on the bleacher side of the gym.

The locals will open the campaign tonight with Rochester high and will play the Alumni team tomorrow night.

AMERICAN SHIP GOES ON ROCKS

BELFAST, Ireland, Dec. 21.—The American freighter Westcott went ashore on the rocks of the Bangor

The ship was reported in a dangerous position. Tugs were sent to its assistance.

The freighter was bound from New Orleans to Glasgow, Scotland.

100 TRAINMEN WIN AWARDS

Traction Company Gives
Dinner in Safety Campaign.

Approximately 100 trainmen, employed on the East Liverpool and Steubenville divisions of the Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction company, received cash cooperative awards in the safety and courtesy campaign for the six-month period ending December 15, at dinner given in their honor at the Pennsylvania avenue car barn yesterday.

Workers on the night turn were entertained at noon while those on the morning runs were guests at 6:30
p. m.

The awards, which in some cases
amounted to $30, totalled $2,423.33, depending upon the report of each train-
man for the six-month period. J. M.
Robinson, president of the Steubenville division of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees of America, spoke at the noon meeting, while W. B. Nicholson, head of Division No. 52, of this city, was the speaker in the evening.

H. R. Frederick, assistant general manager, spoke at both dinners.

Places were laid for about 50.
The accident - prevention and courtesy promotion campaign was inaugurated by the traction company several years ago as a means of improving service and creating a better feeling between the street car company and the public through the trainmen. The awards are given during the latter part of June and December annually,
the bonus depending upon the record
of each individual.

Coolidge Signs Bill (Continued from Page One)

Project to Cost $165,000,000.
The project will cost $165,000,000,
all to be repaid to the government by users of the water and power. The project will include a 550 foot dam at either Boulder or Black canyon on the Colorado, a power generating plant at the same site and an all-American canal, linking the Colorado river at Laguna Dam to the irrigation system of the Imperial valley.

The dam will be one of the most imposing in the world. It will create a reservoir of 20,000,000 acre-feet of water, backing it up in the high-valley canyon of the Colorado. The proposed power plant, commanding all this water supply, will guarantee 500,000 primary horse power and a maximum of 1,000,000 horse power.

In order to protect the government's expenditures, the bill provided that no work should start upon the dam until the secretary of the interior has contract for sale of water, which will guarantee repayment of all but $25,000,000.

school, and Miss Esther C. Neal, school nurse, who will leave January 5 for California. Clifford C. Beane, principal at the Glenmoor school, was transferred to Miss Mick's room.

Superintendent C. S. McVay announced the appointment of E. W.
Shirley, former teacher, as substitute teacher to take Beane's position at the Glenmoor building. A substitute teacher will also be named for Miss Scott's place in the Third street building.

R. B. Stevenson, chairman of the building and grounds committee, announced that the contract for the wiring and installation of lights in the Lincoln building has been awarded to George McCallough, Washington street electrician, for $200. The work will be completed during the Christmas vacation.

Athletic Association Ruling.
The Civic Music association was granted the use of the high school auditorium for its next concert on Tuesday, January 2.

Superintendent C. S. McVay informed members of the board of education that by a ruling of the Ohio High School Athletic association of which East Liverpool is a member, athletic coaches must be certified teachers and teach not less than three regular periods daily, after September 15, 1929.
The association has also ruled that high school basketball players shall not be permitted to play with professional teams after the close of the basketball seasons in the schools.

Potters Honor Wells (Continued from Page One)

Acting in behalf of the United States Potters' association, George C.
Thompson, of the C. C. Thompson
Pottery company, presented the traveling case and a testimonial, which is to be especially engraved in a leather folder and bear the names of the officers, members of the executive and labor committees and all general ware manufacturers.

In his presentation, Thompson said:
"Dear Mr. Wells:
By this token we, the members of the United States Potters' Association, do hereby express to you our appreciation of your many years of faithful and efficient service as chairman of our labor committee. That we may continue to enjoy your helpful cooperation is our wish.

"This is also an assurance of our enduring and affectionate friendship. May health, happiness and prosperity be yours."

Lauded as "Greatest Roman."
Mr. Wells, who for the first time in his brilliant career was too overcome with emotion to respond in the manner in which he is accustomed, was lauded as "the greatest Roman of them all," "East Liverpool district's outstanding citizen," "a man who is right in most things, wrong in few things and honest in all things," and
"the inspiration of the pottery industry," by manufacturers, Chamber of Commerce officials, lawyers, business competitors, employees and newspaper men.

Seated at the toastmaster's table
were the guest of honor and Malcolm W. Thompson, president of the United States Potters' association; Joseph M.
Wells of Newell, past president of the organization and his father's successor as head of the labor committee;
Patrick McNicol, Hal N. Harker, Honor J. Taylor, George C. Thompson and Campbell George, the latter of East Palestine.

Attorney Ben L. Bennett, in his usual witty manner, was the toastmaster.

Toast to "Unselfish Man."
With a toast to the "Unselfish Man
— W. E. Wells," George C. Mitchell of Coshocton, a past president of the general ware manufacturers' association, opened the festivities as the guests assembled in the dining room.

After reading regrets from Joseph Mayer, Beaver Falls, Pa.; D. William Scammell and William Burgess, Trenton, N. J.; William Pitcairn, New York; B. E. Salisbury, Syracuse, N.
Y.; George Ahrends, of Cambridge,
O.; Sol Ostrow, Hopewell, Va., the Empire China company of Burbank, Cal., Illinois China company, Lincoln, Ill., and a score of others who were unable to be present, Malcolm W.
Thompson eulogized the guest of honor. He then introduced Attorney Bennett.

Bennett's Speech.
In opening the after-dinner program,
Bennett paid this tribute to Mr. Wells:
"No more pregnant words occur in the Holy Writ than these 'As a man thinketh in his heart so is he.' There is no deviation from the divine law
that thought is the mother of all circumstances. Every man is where he is and what he is by reason of the mere thought out of which he has made himself and his conditions. The workings from cause to effect are as absolute and immutable in the secret realm of the soul as in the outer world of visible things. Wishes are wings.
Upon them we mount to what heights
we will. But the wish must be genuine and soul deep.

"God has endowed you, Mr. Wells, with a wonderful intellect with which to formulate your wishes. And what excellent use you have made of it.

"You wished for success and you have been successful, because there never has been an obstacle, never a limitation your mind could not overcome.

"You wished for friends and your mind said be friendly which you have been. Therefore, you have many many friends.

"You wished for love. Your mind said to you 'Do things for others.' You have obeyed this impulse time after time. Now you are loved by those who know you.

"Whatever you have done in this life has been well done. You have been sincere in your work and fair in your play. You have controlled your thoughts and therefore you have controlled your destiny.

"You will be missed by your associates in your recent line of activity and your place will be hard to fill.
And we gather here tonight to honor
your presence and wish you to know that not only those assembled but this entire community appreciates you.

"We wish tonight to emulate the three wise men. We have seen your star shining in the east and we are come to lay at your feet our gold of love, our frankness of good wishes and our wish of continued health and prosperity. We desire these things to fill your presence like the hills which grow green to June's undimmed skies.
We wish them to be yours throughout the balance of the afternoon of your life. Yours until the cool and long shadows grow, until sunset gates un-bar and silvery stars welcome you home. Yours until the sun goes out the moon fades into oblivion and the milky way shall shine no more.

"If I were to express my personal opinion of you, Mr. Wells, I would do so in one sentence and in these words:
Behold the man. Right in most things, wrong in but few things and honest in all things.

"And so to toast you:
"May you live a hundred years.
"Just to make things brighter in this old vale of tears.
"May we also live a hundred less
just one day.
"Because we wouldn't want to stay here after you had gone away."

Mr. Wells' Response.
Responding, Mr. Wells said:
"If I had known this would have happened I never would have resigned. I have met many embarrassing situations but never one such as this.
You are all my friends. I have never felt one impulse of unpleasantness toward anyone in this hall. I have never been jealous of any competitor. My desire is to see all succeed."

The guest of honor then paid a tribute to H. N. Harker, and Patrick McNicol and others at the toastmaster's table with whom he had been associated on the labor committee. And added, "They all stood by me in every righteous thought."

He then launched into the story of the importance of the ceramic industry, pointing out that the welfare and happiness of more than 100,000 persons, directly or indirectly affected by the prosperity of the business, were always uppermost in the thoughts of the labor committee in its negotiations with the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters.

"Twenty-five thousand persons in the East Liverpool district, which represents one fourth of the industry,
are dependent upon the potteries," he said.

"No tongue of man or angels could tell you what is in my heart," he continued. "You have done the finest thing, and I can never tell you how much I appreciate it."

Pioneers Attest Esteem.
"He always stood for the best interests of the pottery industry and the people dependent upon it," said
H. N. Harker in lauding Mr. Wells.

"Mr. Wells always was unselfish and four-square in his dealings," declared Patrick McNicol.

W. L. Smith, Jr., conveyed "The Best wishes and heartfelt appreciation of what Mr. Wells has done for the pottery industry," from his father, W. L.
Smith, who, because of illness, was unable to attend the testimonial dinner.

W. H. Vodrey Speaks.
Saluting Mr. Wells as the "Greatest Roman of them all," Attorney W.
H. Vodrey said:

"This is not the end of Ed Wells.
It's his beginning. He is not quitting his endeavors. He is just coming into his full bloom."

Mr. Vodrey then lauded the Wells family, referring to the father and mother and wife of the honor guest and his three sons, Joseph M. Senator-elect W. Edwin, and Arthur A.
Wells, and their families.

Others on Progr.
Others who attested his sincerity of purpose, his importance to the community, the prominence of his family and their beautiful home life as well as Mr. Wells' kindness in dealing with employees and friends were:
George Fowler, Homer Lau, his salesman; M. T. Zimmerman, L. Hon, and F.
R. O'Hanlon, newspaper men; Dr. A.
V. Reisinger, head of the research department of the Homer Laughlin company; Charles Sebring, of Sebring, O.; T. A. McNicol, manufacturer; Louis Porter, Chicago, in charge of the proposed merger of 26
Ohio potteries; H. B. Barth, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce; C. A.
Smith, F. I. Simmers and T. Mills Bennett and Charles F. Goodwin, secretary of the manufacturers' association. The latter, in behalf of George W. Radcliffe, of the Manufacturers'
Light and Heat company, Pittsburgh, presented Mr. Wells with a dozen American Beauty roses.

T. A. McNicol Committee Chairman.
East Liverpool has held many elaborate dinners, but for appointments
last night's celebration in honor of the secretary-treasurer and general manager of the Homer Laughlin interests surpassed all. Many small tables were arranged in the hall, while across the eastern end of the spacious dining room was placed the toastmaster's table. Each was adorned with chrysanthemums and tall tapers while the centerpiece at the toastmaster's was made of roses and chrysanthemums.
Miniature Christmas trees added to the effects.

DeMar Miller's orchestra was in charge of the music.

IF —A wife loses interest in her home or husband, would you call HER a "Cardboard Lover?"

—A husband insists on living his own life regardless of his wife's feelings, opinions or desires, would you call HIM a "Cardboard Lover?"

—A sweetheart should prove fickle or temperamental, responsive one minute and indifferent the next, would you call HIM or HER a "Cardboard Lover?"

Thousands of people who believe they are in love are actually nothing but "Cardboard Lovers." They don't know the first thing about this great emotion.

German Women Lead Men.
Women are vying with men for dominance in the business and professional world of Germany, according to statistics just issued. At the present time 11,500,000 German girls and women are full-time workers in professions, businesses and trades, which is nearly one-third more than in pre-war years. More than half of all persons engaged in retail trade are women, as are nearly 75 per cent of the assistants in stores. During the last summer semester one of every 10 students in the 23 universities of Germany was a woman. At Berlin university alone were 1,218 female students. An investigation just completed shows that the intense application that is required to ensure proficiency in the higher professions has not injured women's natural faculties.

Calcutta and Chittagong, important cities in India, are to be connected by airplane service.

Motorists Are Slow In License Request

Only 100 Out of Possible 1,800 Issued by Wells-ville Distributor; New Plates May Be Used Today.

WELLSVILLE, O., Dec. 21.—With only 100 automobile licenses issued out of a possible 1,800 to 2,000, C. W. Arnold, local tag distributor, today was anticipating the customary eleventh-hour rush as motorists seek to equip their cars before Jan. 1, 1929.

A total of 1,800 tags has been procured to date by the local distributing agency, with numbers ranging from 487,801 to 489,599.

Seven sets of truck plates have been issued to date.

"Come early and avoid the rush," is Arnold's warning to motorists. Special assistants will be on duty at the Arnold insurance and real estate office, Main street, where the licenses are being issued.

Freddy Edwards Conquers Ray Mitchell By Knockout In Sixth

Chester Barber Victor In Welter Grudge Bout

Affairs of the fist in the East Liverpool Chester district today had returned to a stage of normalcy following the victory of Freddy Edwards, Chester barber, over Ray Mitchell, East Liverpool, in the main bout of the Valley A. C. show last night at Wells-ville.

Edwards knocked Mitchell out in the last canto of their sixround scrap with a vicious right hook to the jaw and decisively settled, for the time being at least, any question of supremacy.

The fight was a grueling struggle from bell to bell and the Chester boy's better condition was probably the deciding factor. Mitchell fought a wary battle, using the old bean better than he's ever done before but along about the third or fourth rounds his underpinning refused to go on with the party. He got wobbly and Edwards got to him.

Both were cautious in the opening round. There were few clean blows struck and they finished on even terms.

Mitchell got to Edwards' face and stomach in the second for solid smacks which, however, did not appear to slow up the West Virginian. Edwards appeared to be playing a waiting game, his movements in the fifth and sixth rounds substantiating this belief. Edwards, too, was wild with his swings. Mitchell assumed a crouching position and he feinted, ducked and lunged in a manner that merited respect. Mitchell won the round on points.

Mitchell slowed down in the third. Edwards still appeared to be hiding his time. Although he swung frequently, he was still off in his judge of distance.

Edwards evened it up by taking the fourth. Mitchell was losing his snap and was clinching frequently during the round.

The tide of battle turned definitely in favor of Edwards in the fifth. The Chester boy was hitting better—and oftener. A hard right to the jaw staggered Mitchell. Edwards, using a chopping stroke, was getting to Mitchell's crouched head. Another wallop to the jaw and Mitchell took a count of nine. He appeared exhausted. Edwards was using his right with telling effect, especially in the clinches.

Mitchell was hanging on as the bell rang.

Edwards cut loose with all he had in the final round. Mitchell clinched desperately. Two minutes went by with Edwards struggling to break away from Mitchell's clinches. The Chester barber left a right to the jaw and hooked another of the same kind to the same spot and Mitchell went down. He was counted out with slightly less than a minute to go.

Crowd of between 500 and 600 jammed the city hall auditorium to see the scraps, principally the Edwards-Mitchell grudge. Both boys gave their best. The fighting was clean all the way. To Edwards, the victor deservedly goes the honors. To Mitchell, the conquered, goes credit for a game, if losing, battle.

Young Smackey, Canonsburg light weight, smacked out Al Reno, Youngstown, in the fourth round of their scheduled six. The end came following a wild exchange of blows. Reno, exhausted, was unable to stand it as Smackey drilled into him.

Young Billy Wallace, Youngstown, won from Johnny Pollock, Youngstown, in another sixrounder. Both lads took the bout on short notice. Matchmaker Fouts being compelled to shift hurriedly after influenza had wiped out virtually half his card. Both boys worked hard and deserved better treatment than they received.

Referee Watson stepped out of character when he berated the boys for not fighting. They might have done more damage if each had been equipped with an ax or something.

"Poison" Pizzone, Wellsville, knocked out Tony Lee, Detroit, in the first round of their scheduled four. "Red" Williams, East Liverpool, outpointed Irish Gilligan, Toronto, in the three-round opener.

Orange Teams Break Even in Two Contests

Girls Win, Boys Lose in Salineville Game.

Coach Donaldson's veteran girls' organization gave Wellsville high an even break with Salineville cage teams in opening games of the campaign last night on the Wellsville court. The Orange lassies finished under wraps with a 34-10 conquest while the boys' squad dropped a 24-21 decision to the visiting combine.

Things were a little slow in the first five minutes of the girls' pre-lim but after that the Orange passers started on a scoring rampage that could not be checked, with Dorothy Dornick standing out as the offensive star. The squad worked smoothly all the way. In the last half, part of the team was withdrawn to give the reserves an opportunity.

Coach Dave Evans started his second team against Salineville but hastily rearranged his forces after the visitors had strung up six points. Snowden bucketed a long one for the home five's only points in the opening quarter which ended 6-2. The Tigers outplayed the opposition in the second period and the count was knotted at 9-9 at the half. The battle was close in the third period but the home quint managed to force ahead by a single point, 15-14, at the three-quarter post.

Guard Buckley went out on personal fouls in the final period and his absence evidently impaired the Orange defense for the visitors regained lost ground and finally took the lead which they held when the game ended.

Snowden's work was outstanding for the Wellsville five while Woodward was the mainspring of the Salineville attack.

IRONDALE COPS PAIR OF GAMES

IRONDALE, O., Dec. 21.—Irondale high cagers recorded a pair of sweeping victories here last night over Knoxville passers, the girls winning by a 41-6 score and the boys taking the big end of a 48 to 3 engagement.

In each game, the Irondale teams had things virtually their own way. Coaches Henderson of the boys and Gordon of the girls used practically all of their reserves in the second half. Lowry of the boys' squad, hit the nets seven times. "Red" Frampton, of the girls, registered eight field goals.

Phantom Returns

Whether Paavo Nurmi, the "Phantom Finn," intends to race professionally, sell automobiles or merely arrange for Finland's training quarters for 1932 Olympics, couldn't be learned as he came up New York bay aboard the S. S. Rochambeau. Here's a characteristic study of the great runner.

BEETHAM JOINS COOPER STAFF

Cadiz Banker Accepts State Prohibition Post.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 21.—Following the official announcement by Governor-elect Myers Y. Cooper of the acceptance by Rupert R. Beetham, Cadiz, of the position of state prohibition commissioner, state political activities were at a low ebb today.

After spending the day conferring with many persons who either desired employment in state departments for themselves or for friends, Cooper returned last night to his Cincinnati home where he will spend Christmas.

Harry D. Silver, who managed Cooper's gubernatorial campaign and who is to be director of finance in Cooper's cabinet, returned to his home in Eaton last night.

Cooper and Silver expect to return to their headquarters in the Neil House here about the middle of next week. In the meantime, no further appointments are expected.

The senate patronage committee, Senator M. S. Kuhns, Dayton, chairman, is to meet in the senate "smoker" Statehouse, this afternoon and decide upon the appointment of 45 senate employees, including pages, stenographers and doorkeepers.

In the first eight months of 1928, airplanes and parts exported from the United States totaled more than $2,606,000 as compared with $1,010, during the same period of 1927.

KING GEORGE HAS RESTFUL NIGHT

LONDON, Dec. 21.—King George's progress continues.

The following medical bulletin was issued at Buckingham palace at 11:30 o'clock this morning:

"The king has had a restful night. There is no appreciable change to be noted."

It was stated by Sir Stanley Hewitt, Sir Hugh Riggall and Lord Dawson of Penn.

Palace circles were highly pleased over the morning bulletin.

The interpretation placed upon the announcement was that the king's progress continues, even though slow.

JARDINE O. K.'S McNARY MEASURE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Secretary of Agriculture Jardine today endorsed the new McNary farm relief bill and urged congress to enact it in time to apply on the 1929 crops.

Jardine went into detail in approving the measure, giving his endorsement to the provisions for a federal farm board, the creation of agriculture stabilization corporations and for government loans to cooperatives.

He made his views known in a letter to Senator McNary (R) of Oregon, author of the measure, and offered his assistance in helping to enact the bill into law.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—Industrial stocks started to eight points at the beginning of trading today, carrying forward the rally which has been in progress since the middle of the week.

At 369 Radio was up eight points and Wright Aero traveled the same distance to 260. Radio has thus recovered nearly 100 points of its recent losses and Wright Aero 64 points.

Another $65,000,000 was squeezed out of the total of brokers' loans, according to the reserve board's weekly report. This makes a decline of $284,000,000 in two weeks and should ease up the money market when funds are most needed for year-end business.

The copper stocks and the oils were again the center of a brisk buying movement in the first hour. Standard Oil of New York went to 41, up 1 1/4, and Standard of New Jersey rose fractionally.

Packard led the motors, with a new 2 1/2-point rise to 148 3/4. General Motors and Chrysler were in good demand at a fractionally higher price. Nash continued to force ahead. U. S. Steel sold at the highest price on the recovery and Central Alloy was again the most active of the independent steels.

RINTY IN SCREEN HIT AT CERAMIC

Few human beings are as well or as widely known as Rin-Tin-Tin. And now he is at the Ceramic theater in a picture which seems to have more zip and pep and go, than any of his former ones, and that is saying a lot. In "Land of the Silver Fox," Rinty, having been bought from a hard master by a young fur trader, decides to fight for his new friend whatever the odds.

The boy wants to get married to a pretty girl at the trading post, whose guardian, himself, wants to get her, and for the purpose sends Rinty and the lad off on a journey across the snows, at the same time plotting with a killer to do away with the youth. This he almost does, but Rin-Tin-Tin falls upon the bad man with such fury that he is glad to get away with his life. The villain makes his way back to the post and tells the girl's guardian that the boy is safely dead. Months pass before Rinty can lead his wounded young master back and when the two get home they find the girl about to be married, against her will, to the guardian. This is just the beginning of the rough stuff, when Rinty pulls such fast ones as to make you grip your seat and hold on!

MIRTH, THRILLS AT AMERICAN

Those who like their mystery seasoned with laughter and who prefer a cold chill topped by a grin, will do well to visit the American theater where "The Haunted House" is creating mirth and mystery galore.

Chester Conklin and Flora Finch and others of the fine cast provide plenty of comedy in this First National picture which Benjamin Christensen directed. This comedy team is always to be relied upon and their experiences in a house that is reputed to be decidedly an unhealthy spot for people with weak nerves, are excruciating.

They go there seeking a hidden packet of bones; they run up against mad men, somnambulists, a horrible old caretaker and a hundred and one things of an untoward nature.

Thelma Todd, Eve Southern and Barbara Bedford are three beautiful girls who provide the love mystery. Montagu Love and William V. Mong are two of the strange and menacing figures while Larry Kent is the handsome young hero of the piece. There are a number of other talented actors and withal the cast is far above the ordinary.

Much may be said for the sets; the interiors of the old house are perfect in their atmospheric character. The original stage play, by Owen Davis, possessed fewer thrills than the film version.

There is no questioning the popularity of mystery pictures and "The Haunted House" is one of the finest.

Folding Bicycles for France.

Anti-checking bicycles have been introduced in France. The machine may be folded up and put into a suitcase. Weighing only 26 pounds it can easily be carried on trains independent of the baggage man. At the end of the trip it can easily be unfolded, all ready to be ridden.

FARMER WORLD CHAMPION PAPA

French was the father of 22 children by three wives. Besides 23 grand children, he was 75 years old at the time of his death.

French's third wife, who survives him, was the mother of nine of his children.

Swiss Fight Tuberculosis.

German Air Lines Busy.

Germany's air lines did more than half the flying in Europe this year. The daily flights of 150 large passenger planes covered 49,000 miles every 24 hours. In one month 20,000 passengers, 123 tons of freight, 163 tons of baggage and 162 tons of mail were carried. During the same period English lines covered only 112,750 miles and carried 6,531 passengers and 100 tons of freight. Lines of other countries did even less.

Scotch War Fiddler Dies.

Veterans who traveled on troop trains of the Highland Railway of Scotland during the World war are grieved over the death of James Macqueen of Forres, recently. Macqueen distinguished himself during the war by boarding trains carrying soldiers to the front and playing Highland tunes to cheer the youths. He was a familiar figure at every station, where he would leave one train and greet those on trains that followed.

Bookmakers Plan Chain.

In connection with their plan to establish a chain of branches through England, a firm of bookmakers has placed an order with the postoffice department for an exclusive line from their London office to each of the 68 cities in that country having a population of 70,000 or more. The government price for this is $500,000, which the bookmakers accepted with the request that the work be completed within six weeks.

MAIL PILOT DIES IN CRASH

Leo J. McGinn, 30, Is Killed Near Huron.

SANDUSKY, O., Dec. 21.—One more named ap, are today on the list of pilots who have given up their lives in the service of the air mail, following the death last night of Leo J. McGinn, 30, of Maywood, Ill., who was killed in a crash at Huron, near here.

Blind and helpless in the thick of a heavy snow, McGinn circled the village of Huron three times and then crashed into an apple tree on the Charles A. Warnke farm. The wrecked plane fell to the ground, hurling McGinn from the cockpit and decapitating his body.

The gas tank exploded. The plane was the center of a roaring conflagration and the pilot's body was badly burned.

The greater part of the mail was salvaged, though most of it was damaged by fire or gasoline. Edward Hinde, a rural mail carrier, who was one of the first on the scene, directed the collection of scattered mail, some of which was dragged from the flaming wreckage.

McGinn, one of the National Air Transport's best pilots, was carrying the westbound mail from Cleveland. Just before he crashed he sent down a landing flare, causing spectators to believe the plane was already on fire. His death is the fourth on the New York-Cleveland-Chicago air mail line in two months.

Canton Pastor Kills Himself.

CANTON, O., Dec. 21.—Funeral services were arranged today for Aaron Voda, 48, widely known Rumanian pastor of St. George's church in a thickly settled Rumanian section here, who killed himself late yesterday. His body was found at his home, with a bullet wound through the heart, by the church sexton.

Third-class railway sleeping cars have just been introduced into Ireland.

Metal Planes Soon In Services From Chicago to Coast

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—A new fleet of 25 all metal planes for operation on the Chicago-San Francisco route will soon be in operation, according to the American Air Transport association. These planes will be equipped with three mail cockpits and one cockpit for express.

The high speed of the new fleet will be 140 miles per hour with full load. They will fly between San Francisco and Chicago in 20 hours with four changes of pilots.

Speeding up of the service from Chicago to New York by various air lines is also planned.

Canadian War Vets Rush Land Office To File Claims

REGINA, Sask.—When 100 quarter sections of land were thrown open for homestead filing in southern Saskatchewan, more than 60 Canadian war veterans camped outside the land office at Moose Jaw.

Some came three days before the day for entry and maintained vigil in the cold until the office opened.

Platinum Brooches in Paris.
Platinum brooches with diamonds of varied sizes sunk into the surface of the metal are in fashion in Paris for those who can afford them. The effect is unusual, and diamonds set in this way are much more attractive than when arranged in graduated sizes, the wearers declare. Diamonds combined with rock crystal are used for a single piece of jewelry, so that the brilliance of the gem may be enhanced by comparison.

Peking Being Deserted.
While plans for the rebuilding of Nanking, as the national capital of China, are under way, Peking, the former capital city, is being deserted by many. According to the local press, 3,563 shops have already closed, and proprietors of others are petitioning the government for permission to quit because of lack of business. The plan for rebuilding Nanking involves an expenditure of $50,000,000, the central treasury supplying $15,000,000, and the remaining provinces $35,000,000.

False Teeth Face Exclusion.
Eniskillen's false teeth crop was threatened with extermination by the new law in Northern Ireland that water should be used only for domestic purposes. Charles Herbert, a dentist, used two ounces of water daily in making molds for the substitute chewers, and was fined the equivalent of 12 cents. He appealed to the Quarter Sessions Court. His Honor said that if it was whiskey instead of water it would hardly be serious, and let Herbert off, but the dentist had to pay $5 court costs.

Sweet Lemons as Perfume.
Lemons so sweet that they are being used as perfume are being developed by growers in Porto Rico. They are as large as grapefruit, and sweet enough to eat without sugar. Because of their pleasing, penetrating odor, they are used as a scent in linen clovers. When the citrus is in the larger lasts two months.

HURLEY TO HELP
Preventable Ills Cost
Three Billions
Annually.

CHICAGO.—A community clinic designed to save life and reduce economic waste has been proposed for Chicago.

Periodic physical examinations of persons in the community clinic will save a vast sum annually through the prevention of illness and will be of benefit to employees and employers alike, according to Edward N. Hurley, Chicago manufacturer, who first suggested the clinic.

More than a million dollars will be needed for the venture and Hurley has offered his aid in raising the amount.

Loss By Illness.

Hurley has pointed out that the rapid replacement of older workers in American industries by younger men is in part due to physical maladjustment of workers to their jobs and he believes that such a condition would be done away with by the community clinic. The clinic would examine workers and recommend medical treatment by regular practitioners or would advise changes of occupation.

At present losses each year to the nation from preventable illness among 42,000,000 employees amounts to 350,000,000 man hours or 47,500,000 eight-hour days, which amounts to a direct loss of three billions per year in productive capacity, according to Hurley.

The Chicago manufacturer declared that under the leadership and cooperation of Northwestern and Chicago universities, Loyola college and University of Illinois, the way may be pointed to eliminate this loss, as well as do away with the needless suffering and family distress which lies back of it.

Preventable Defects.

Hurley declared that business losses from technical and managerial incompetence are of minor importance compared to the loss from preventable bodily defects and breakdown among the nation's workers.

In a statement Hurley said: "Medical leaders and students of social conditions recognize the importance of providing for regular physical examinations; but the movements have not yet reached a point of availability for the masses of people. Men and women of ample means are in a position to take advantage of health conservation clinics or to enter hospitals for observation; but persons of average means, or those in the lesser earnings classification, unfortunately cannot afford this protective service.

"Chicago should bring this service to the masses of people who are the source of our common prosperity and progress, by establishing scientific community clinics or health inventories, with well known specialists in every branch of therapeutics in charge of the various departments."

Emily Walker, 72, who died recently at Brockley, England, as the result of her nightdress catching on fire from a candle, had been a servant for one family for 62 years.

Sir Wilfred Grenfell, the well known missionary who has lived for many years in Labrador, recently defeated Lord Melchett for the rectorship of St. Andrew's University of Scotland.

Calls on President

The President must have told a humorous story, if the smile on the face of Mme. Ganna Walska (above) is to be believed. The photo was snapped as the opera singer left after a call upon President and Mrs. Coolidge.

NATION ENJOYS GOOD BUSINESS FOR YEAR 1928

Most Satisfactory Since War Period For Corporations.
EARNINGS JUMP
Best Gains Made in Copper, Motors,
Chain Stores.

NEW YORK—American business had a successful year in 1928. From the standpoint of corporation profits the year was without doubt the most satisfactory of any similar period since the end of the war, and the recovery in important sections of industry that have been under depression since 1921 were carried to the highest levels yet attained.

In the first ten months of the year, the net earnings of 229 corporations, representing a complete cross-section of American business, increased 21 per cent over the corresponding period of 1927. Of these companies, 162 have reported larger incomes than for the corresponding period last year, and 67 had smaller net earnings.

The best gains of the year were made in the copper, motorcar, motor equipment, petroleum and retail chain-store groups, while moderate gains were made in the chemical, iron and steel, and machinery groups.

Copper Earnings.

Going into the matter a little more specifically, it is found that 8 copper companies showed a gain of 68 per cent in net earnings as compared with last year from 13 to 17 cents a pound; 18 motor equipment companies had net income 52 per cent higher than in 1927; 27 petroleum companies increased net earnings 45 per cent; 6 retail chain stores increased 25 per cent; 8 chemical companies 11 per cent and 18 iron and steel companies 8 per cent.

It must be remembered, of course, that 1927 was not a good year from the corporation earnings standpoint. In the second half of the year the output of the automobile companies shrunk considerably due to the closing of the Ford works and the decline in production schedules of other important plants. The oil companies in many cases ended the year in red ink figures on their balance sheets, because of a huge overproduction of crude oil and gasoline and the consequent slumping of prices of oil products. Copper companies complained of low prices and unprofitable operations, and the textile companies suffered from the same complaint.

Conditions Reversed.

Since the first quarter of the year these conditions have been reversed. Relieved of the burdens of large inventories, and finding an ever-widening market for their products at home and abroad, American industrial manufacturers were encouraged to add materially to their producing capacities and to speed up their machinery to the highest point. Thus the operations of the steel mills have kept above 80 per cent of capacity for practically all of the second half of the year, a considerable increase over 1926, the previous peak year of the post-war period.

Steel production, automobile manufacturing and building construction have held their own as the "big three" in the backlog of the country's prosperity. General Motors as an industrial money-making giant has hardly been surpassed in this or any other year, and with an aggregate of profits this year of $300,000,000 it has established a high water mark for corporation profits that will be hard to surpass, though the President of General Motors recently declared that 1929 would be more profitable for his big enterprise than any previous year.

The steady improvement in the textile industry has been one of the outstanding features of the year in the industrial world. Textile heads are striving manfully to overcome the handicap of over-production which has been holding them back for the last five years or more, and many of them are already seeing daylight just around the corner.

Money Market.

The squeeze in the money market was principally in the realm of speculative borrowing, or the call loan market, but it undoubtedly had its effect upon the commercial money markets where rates have been unusually high. One by-product of high rates has been the enormous increase in earnings of the banking institutions all over the country and the consequent sky-rocketing of bank stock prices in a wide distribution of the shares all over the country.

The year closes with employment and wages at the peak of the post-war period; with buying power never better; retail trade and holiday trade booming; manufacturing corporations at or near the peak of production; order books carrying a good volume of new orders, for home and foreign markets; political skies clearing and increasing good will at home and abroad, American business from all indications is on the threshold of a prosperous period that may stretch considerably longer than a single year.

Over the open grave of J. D. Drew, 74, who had rung the bells at Mitcham, England, belfry for 60 years, handbell ringers gave a special peal.

High Wycombe Council of England is to buy for $40,000 The Priory, a fourteenth-century house in the heart of the city, for probable use as a library.

What Chefs Eat Disclosed.

When chefs famous throughout Europe held a banquet in London recently, the favorite foods of the gods of gastronomy were revealed. So anxious was M. Georges, in charge of the feast, to live up to the honor of being a chef to chefs that he made a "corner" in European asparagus so that he might have the most delicate tips for garnishings to one of his courses. One of his dishes was fillet of sole served with sauce made of the juice of hot house grapes, mushrooms and truffles. Another was wing and breast of chicken with a garniture of heart of artichoke, little pieces of chicken, fresh points of asparagus and cream sauce. The desert was strawberries encased in ice cream, with an outer layer of cake and a piping hot jacket of egg paste. The menu was long and varied.

BOSTON, Mass.—In spite of the fact that the western part of the country is suffering from an unusual number of influenza cases, Boston is practically free from the disease, according to Health Commissioner Dr. Francis X. Mahoney.

However, Dr. Mahoney issued a warning to the public to guard against the spread of respiratory diseases, when he made public the following list of "Don'ts."

Avoid persons who are coughing or sneezing.

Keep fingers and pencils away from the mouth.

Outside the home use individual drinking cups. At home see that cups and all drinking and eating utensils are properly scalded and washed.

Avoid crowds.

Do not allow yourself to get tired, hungry or cold.

Sleep and work in rooms with fresh air, avoid drafts and keep the body warm.

Take plenty of exercise in the fresh air.

Eat simple, nourishing food.

Never let the body get too hot or too cold.

Dress according to weather conditions.

Cover your nose or mouth with a handkerchief when you cough or sneeze, keep away from others.

If you have a cold or are subject to sneezing, keep away from crowds.

Wash your hands frequently.

Do not expectorate on floors, streets or cars.

"EMPTY" REVOLVER KILLS POLICEMAN

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—"I wouldn't do this if I didn't know the gun was empty," said Eugene V. McGuinness, 25, "model man" of Long Island City, as he twirled his service revolver on his index finger to impress Mrs. Josephine Coonan, 22, attractive matron. The revolver exploded accidentally and the policeman received a bullet in the head.

German City Plans To Erect Memorial To World War Dead

MEISSEN.—As a feature of next year's celebration of the thousandth anniversary of the city of Meissen, a church to be erected as a memorial to the victims of the World War will have interior decorations entirely of the famous Meissen porcelain.

The formerly Royal Meissen porcelain factory has just opened its first salesrooms in Berlin.

Author's Story Parallels S. S. Vestris Disaster

Maurine Watkins (left), famous playwright, who handles the tradition, "women and children first," without gloves. Right, sailors of S. S. Berlin picking up a Vestris survivor, and, below, artist's drawing of lifeboat quitting a doomed liner.

NEW YORK.—When the S. S. Vestris went down off the Virginia Capes with a sickening loss of life among women and children, a wave of horror swept the country. Had the knightly law of the sea, "women and children first," been thrown overboard? Was the new shibboleth "a survival of the fittest"? Five investigations got under way to determine the WHY of the damning ratio of husky, able-bodied men saved as compared with frail, defenseless women and babes.

Maurine Watkins offers an entirely new slant on this old tradition of the sea. In a story written months ago, but which finds a startling parallel in the recent disaster, and which is to appear in the January issue of Hearst's International and Cosmopolitan Magazine, the famous playwright deals with the problem of "women and children first" boldly and without gloves.

Parallels Vestris Disaster. A modern liner—staunch, swift and comfortable, but with lifeboats for only eighty persons, and with three hundred passengers on board! In such a potentially dangerous setting is her story laid. Fenton Ridgely, the hero of "Common Sense," the hero of the great line Balmoria, just as the passengers on the Vestris felt safe.

Then came the unexpected—it was called the impossible until it happened, the ship had to be abandoned. And with this the dread discovery that there were not enough lifeboats. Because some had to be sacrificed they drew lots to see who would go and who would stay.

Of course, in the Vestris sinking, there were plenty of lifeboats, but the listing of the ship made the launching of many of them impossible. So the result was identical.

Skilled Oarsmen Required. Perhaps some of the women and children of the Vestris could have been saved had they merely leaped into the water and kept afloat till picked up! How safe would they have been in lifeboats without skilled seamen along to keep them right side up? For lifeboats require experienced oarsmen to handle them if they are to be safe! Perhaps "women and children first" isn't such a good rule after all!

But the author of "Common Sense" raises an entirely different question. Fenton Ridgely took a poor girl's place in the lifeboat. He was saved and she was lost. He was a young millionaire. Press and public condemned him as a coward, but the author doesn't think he was. For her story points out that Fenton Ridgely, alive, accomplished much good with his millions. Had he been lost his fortune would have been divided among avaricious heirs, and no good would have resulted.

He used "common sense"—and was saved!

Ancient Castle Restored. Restoration of the historic Eileen Donan Castle, guarding the entrance to Loch Duich, Scotland, is nearing completion, and its owner, Lieut-Colonel J. MacRae-Gilstrap, expects to open it with a celebration in the near future. Work of restoration was started in 1913, but was interrupted during the World War. The castle was for a long time the home of the chief of the MacRaes, Mackenzie of Seaforth. In 1331 the Earl of Moray, Warden of Scotland, sent an officer to the castle to prepare for his reception and the arrest of many culprits, 50 of whom were put to death and their heads hung on the walls. On May 10, 1719, three English men-of-war sailed within gunshot of the walls, and the garrison surrendering, the castle was blown up.

"RED LETTER DAY WHEN I FOUND MODERN KONJOLA"

Grateful Man Secured His First and Only Relief From This New Medicine.

MR. C. R. HASSENPLUG. "How can I ever express my gratitude for Konjola, the medicine I always needed," said Mr. C. R. Hassenplug, Room No. 1, Beilstein Bldg., Sandusky, Ohio.

"I searched in vain for relief from stomach trouble. All I ate soured and fermented, caused gas bloating, heart palpitation and many other ugly symptoms. My sleep was disturbed and morning found me as tired as the night before. I felt strength slipping from me, I lost my ambition and work became a drudgery.

"It was a red letter day in my life when I found Konjola. I started on the treatment and gained benefits almost immediately. Four bottles did the work. My stomach is in great shape, I want to eat everything and do, without suffering afterward. What a medicine Konjola is, to do a thing like this in less than a month. I would like all the world to know of its remarkable success in my stubborn case."

Konjola is sold in East Liverpool, O., at Carnahan drug store, and by all the best druggists throughout this entire section.

White Stag Found In Forest. Steps have been taken to protect the white stag which was recently found in the Reinhard Forest, near Cassel, Germany. Thrilling story of love of two girls for the same man

By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Daphne blushed. "I guess I won't move in a hurry." The old lady, almost at the kitchen door, turned and signed again. "It don't go by ones," she said in her harsh, guttural voice, and leaning there in the dim light, supporting her weight on the floor mop, she might have been one of the witches in Macbeth about to ride off on a broomstick. "I don't know, aber sometimes I have funny dreams. . . First it was Carlsen about your room, she went on her vacation, aber I knew. . . I knew where she went. Now McCordie goes to get married, next time downstairs again, I know, I guess I don't sleep much, I dream sometimes."

"Ma! Did you dream Daphne was getting married? Ma—tell us!"

"Never mind," the old lady mumbled, "I guess I didn't say much," and banged the door behind her.

CHAPTER 45.

"Well, spring has come," the butcher boy said, dropping his brown paper bundle on the kitchen table. Adeline Haines sniffed. "I only hope that leg o' lamb I ordered is spring. Last one I got was winter before last. You can tell Mr. Phelps for he that if he ever sends me another—"

"Oh this is genuine spring lamb all right. Real spring deer too. Well, g'bye, Mrs. Haines!"

Old Man Haines looked up from his rocker by the stove. "Yes another spring. The buds are swelling on the trees. It's right pretty out there now, with the sun kind of sparkling on the wet branches. Martha always made a right big fuss over spring. Martha was a great hand for a few blossoms in the window there, in a milk bottle. . . yes. . . every spring." He sighed, and folded his pudgy hands over his stomach, rocking gently back and forth. An "old-man habit" that never failed to irritate Adeline.

"Yes? Well if you had the cold in your head that I got in mine you wouldn't be talking spring. Spring! With mud over everything and your old toes still looking dead as door nails. Oh, how sick I am!" And she began to cry noisily, not bothering to cover her face, so that the tears streamed down her sagging cheeks, streaking the pink paint, and in the glare of the kitchen window she looked incredibly old and worn.

He thought, with a twinge of conscience, "Why, she is sick!" He got up, and with gentle hands patted her fat shoulders. He felt suddenly virile, and young. His wife wasn't well. He'd have to take care of her. "Don't cry," he mumbled, with a return of his old, fatuous manner. "Don't worry, Adeline darling I'm here!" He drew her head against his shoulder, and awkwardly dabbed at her eyes with a big white handkerchief. And then he caught her breath. . . "Adeline! Adeline, you've been drinking! You! My wife. . . After all these years, and me who never touched a drop of intoxicating—"

"You're insulting me!" she screamed. "Just because I took a spoonful to ease my toothache, and maybe help my cold, when Dr. Thomas himself prescribed it, and I hate the taste of it so I'd rather take poison. . . That settles it. . . that settles everything. I'm through—I'm going!"

She actually got as far as the stairway before he had recovered enough to stop her, and even then she ran ahead of him, crying loudly, and threw herself on the top of her unmade bed.

"Adeline, I'm sorry," he cried. "I didn't mean it. Darling, I love you. I'd do anything in the world for you—"

"Anything but spend a nickel!" From the shelter of her protecting arms she could look up at his face. She saw that the shaft had hit home. "I haven't had the money," he said sorrowfully. "That last I raised for Daphne was about all I dared—"

"Yes—for Daphne. You got it for Daphne," she taunted.

After a while she sat up, wiping her eyes. "It burst so," she whispered. "To be so misunderstood. But all my life it's been like that, nobody ever understood me. It's all right I can bear it. I only hope I can keep going a while longer, and don't drop in my tracks getting dinner that's all I hope. . . Well, it's all right. If you can't afford to hire me a woman to help you can't. I'm only your wife, I'll stay by you anyhow. It isn't like I was a daughter. Girls are all selfish. Even Crystal!" She was crying in earnest now.

"What's she been doing?" he demanded, straining the heaving Adeline closer to him. It was sweet to be in her confidence this way, having her complaint to him about Crystal. She had never done that before. It showed she really loved him, depended on him. . .

"Oh nothing. But she won't come home to help me out. . . They're just alike, her and your Daphne, go off and leave us. And I'm worried about her all alone in the city, livin' on air, because you won't send her anything, and not having any money to hire a woman to help me like I should have, with my high blood pressure an' my poor feet. . . ooh, Abner!" The rest was drowned in tears.

He held her until her stormy weeping had ceased. His mind was made up. Why worry about next year? They'd be dead, perhaps, and why save your money for ungrateful children?

"I'll get you a woman," he promised. "I'll get you some money to send Crystal! You can get get you a spring hat too. I guess Abner Haines ain't beat yet."

And as he walked to town he thought he had not felt so well and so young for months. After he had gone Adeline went to the mirror and massaged her face with cold cream, and a tissue builder that the flashing brunette who sold it said would work a miracle in six weeks. She had high hopes of it, it had been so expensive. Then she telephoned to San Jose, and made an appointment for a permanent wave and a peroxide rinse. Things were looking brighter.

In the cracked soup tureen on the top shelf of the china closet there was a little pile of paper money. Money that Daphne had sent. She went to the pantry and counted it now, though she knew the amount to the last cent. Eighty dollars in bills, six dollars in silver, and eight copper cents.

"It's no more than right!" she thought, counting out fifteen for the permanent, and two for the peroxide rinse. "With a good position like she's got, she ought to help some at home. Other girls do. If my girl was working I'd make her do the same. Besides I might need it to bury Abner, you need ready money at a time like that, and he's her father!"

But thinking of Abner dead in his bed, and Abner rattling off in a black wagon, so unmoved that she began to snifle again, and had to take another little taste of medicine to pull herself together. Now that Abner knew about the medicine, and understood why she took it, she wouldn't have to be so careful.

"Ah!" she gasped, as the pale, burning liquid went down.

"But it's good enough for my nerves," she thought, and sat down in Abner's chair to wait for him to come back from town with the promised cook. A pleasant drowsiness stole over her. "I wonder what Crystal's doin' today?"

Crystal was curled up in the biggest armchair yawning over her checkbook and a pile of dog-eared bills. She wasn't good at figures, but one thing was clear, there wasn't nearly enough to pay them. She reached for a sheet of paper to write home to her mother, but heavens what a botch! There was a new magazine on the floor beside her, and a nice box of chocolates.

Half past four! She settled down with the magazine, to wait for Ruth.

He came about an hour later, laden with bundles, and grinning from ear to ear. "Steak and strawberries, and avocados and chocolate cake and—"

"Don't tell me you expect me to cook them!" she whimpered, laughing and kissing him, and inwardly raging. If he thought she was going to fall for that sort of thing he'd have to be disillusioned quickly.

"Should say not, I'm the cook. Where's an apron?" She tied a dish towel around his waist, and he had a wonderful time fussing over the salad, and broiling the steak to just the degree he liked it.

"Wonderful!" she gasped. "The best food I have ever tasted," and he glowed with pride. But he was a bit disappointed too. She was so out of place in the kitchen with her frivolous slippers, and her sophisticated, clinging silk gown.

"We used to do this sort of thing in college," he said, half apologetically. "Seems like old times in a way. By the way, the fraternity. . . did I put too much dressing on the avocados?"

Prussian Cow Sets Mark for Production Of Milk and Butter

KONIGSBERG. — "Peluschke," the record-making cow of Palmicken, East Prussia, has been outdone by "Dahne," a cow owned by Herr von Batoch of Blodau, also in East Prussia. "Dahne's" record for one year is 25,720 pounds of milk with 4.34 per cent of butter fat, and a production of 1,258.5 pounds of butter. This means a daily production of more than 70.4 pounds of milk and 8.44 pounds of butter for the 365 days. "Peluschke's" record was 25,018.5 pounds of milk and 1,120 pounds of butter in one year.

Wolves Kill Man in Poland.
Eastern Poland is alarmed at the daring of packs of ferocious wolves which are roaming several districts. Some of the animals are displaying unusual hardihood, even penetrating into the villages. One man is reported to have been attacked and devoured, and a dairymaid who encountered a pack, but who escaped, was afterward so overcome with fright that she has been unable to speak since. A track-walker met some wolves on the railway line, and kept them at bay by flashing his lantern in their eyes, the animals finally fleeing at the approach of a train. Attacks from other packs have also been reported.

Swallow Oysters to Music.
For the first time in the history of the famous annual opening of the oyster season at Colchester, England, the bivalves were swallowed to music this year. To encourage the guests to do so rhythmically, the Mayor of Colchester invited many distinguished musicians, including Sir Edward Elgar, Sir Henry Wood, and Sir Hugh Allen, Director of the Royal College of Music. A special train took guests, among them being the Duke of Marlborough, Lord Birkenhead, the Lord Mayor of London and Signor Marconi, to the rose-decked tables. The innovation was a success, and will be tried again next year.

Burns Meets Former Captor.
Forty years after he had arrested John Burns, the first member of the Labor Party to enter the British cabinet, R. Hamilton shook hands with the former privy councillor. The ex-policeman is now chairman of the Edswood Shire council, in Queensland, Australia, which administers an area of 5,000 square miles. He arrested Burns during an unemployment riot in Trafalgar Square, London. Hamilton recently called on Burns who is now 70 and retired from public life, during a visit to his native country.

Four in Africa Hunt Food.
After being held in West Africa for months by bad weather, four adventurers recently reached civilization. They are Captain C. E. Lacey, Waller Wilson, wireless operator, W. Williams, cinematographer, and G. Makepiece, newspaper writer. Heavy rains held them so that it took three months to reach Nairobi. For days at a time the expedition had to rely for food solely on what they shot. "In Tanganyika," one member of the party said, "it was like being in a zoo. We saw as many as seven lions in one day. And as for snakes—well, after the rains they came out in thousands."

Police officers in evening dress left a dancing party to help firemen fight a blaze at Bromley, England, recently.

UTILITY LEADER
Operates Power and Light, Traction and Bus Transportation.

By W. S. Cousins.
(Copyright, 1928, N. S.)
NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—I see no good reason why the prosperity which the country enjoyed during 1928
should not be continued in the coming year," said Thomas N. McCarter, president of the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey, to international news service today.
Operating a broad and expanding system of power and light, traction and bus transportation for more than 80 percent of the people of the state of New Jersey, with annual gross income of $120,000,000 and assets of close to $300,000,000, the public service corporation ranks high among the utility giants of this country. Recent compilations show that a total of 26 billion dollars is now invested in utility enterprises in America,

divided as follows:
Power and light..... $12,500,000,000
Street railways..... 6,000,000,000
Telephone and telegraph 3,800,000,000
Water supply..... 3,500,000,000
"The United States was never in a more favorable position to carry out extensive industrial undertakings," said McCarter, pointing out that capital is plentiful and has a wider distribution among all classes than at any other time in the nation's history.
